Applied Political Economy Analysis (PEA)

Immediate Post-Interview Analyses

Instructions

For every interview, immediately following the interview or as soon thereafter as possible, create a row that will hold the key notes from that interview. Enter the details of the interview in the first column and provide the key points in the following columns. The purpose is not to stenographize the interview, but rather record the most important details.

Findings. Findings are facts, these are the interesting nuggets that we've learned from this interview from the perspective of the interviewee.

Conclusions. What can we conclude from these findings?

Programmatic Implications. What effect does this have on our programs?

Other Comments. Was there an interesting anecdote that we can include? Other information we need to follow up on?

Note: This form is intended to be portrayed in landscape form.
